KING EDWARD OF ENGLAND IS DEAD

Breathes His Last in Presence of His Family.

ILL LESS THAN ONE WEEK

Death Believed to Have Been Due to Pneumonia, Following an Attack of Bronchitis Contracted Shortly After the King Returned to London From Biarritz—Prince of Wales Succeeds to the Crown.

London, May 7.—King Edward VII., who returned to England from a vacation ten days ago in the best of health, died in the presence of his family after an illness of less than a week, which was serious hardly more than three days.

The Prince of Wales succeeded to the crown immedately, according to the laws of the kingdom, without official ceremony. His first official act was to dispatch to the lord mayor the announcement of his father's death, in pursuance of custom.

The physicians soon afterwards issued their official bulletin, which follows:

"His majesty, the king, breathed his last in the presence of her majesty, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Royal, the Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria and Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyle."

The Prince of Wales is king, assuming the title of George V., and will take the oath before the privy council.

Coming so suddenly, the death of the king cannot but bring the greatest sorrow to the nation, in whose hearts Edward, first as Prince of Wales and afterward as sovereign, held first place.

History of Stirring Times.

His short reign has been a history of stirring times. It opened with the conclusion of peace after a long and trying campaign in South Africa and concluded at the critical moment of one of the momentous political struggles of modern times, between the peers and commons.

In a day the political outlook of Great Britain has been revolutionized.

Gathered around the bedside of the dying king were the queen and the princesses. No hope had been held out throughout the day for the recovery of his majesty, whose death, it is believed, was due to pneumonia, following bronchitis contracted shortly after he returned from Biarritz.

Only a day or two ago the king was conducting the business of state and giving audiences, but on Wednesday he was compelled to submit to the orders of his physicians. Since then until the end his decline was rapid.

Throughout the empire the word was flashed and flags are floating at half mast the world over. Besides the social gloom which the king's death cast over England several important and long planned official events must be abandoned. The Prince and Princess of Wales were to go to South Africa with the squadron and the prince was to open the first parliament of the new confederation, but his accession to the throne will prevent this.

The death of his majesty must also mean the abandonment of the principal functions of former President Roosevelt's tour. The official receptions and the embassy entertainments will be cancelled and the presentation of the freedom of the city and the luncheon at Guild hall probably will be given up.

CANADA MOURNS FOR KING

Late Monarch Was Revered in the Dominion.

Ottawa, Ont., May 7.—The capital of the premier daughter nation of the motherland was plunged into sudden mourning by the news flashed on the bulletin boards of the newspapers, cried on the streets in black bordered extras and announced by tolling bells that the empire's sovereign, Edward the peacemaker, was dead.

Coming with startling suddenness the first effect has been one of almost unrealizable loss. King Edward was revered in the Canadian capital as in every section of the Dominion, not only because he represented the head and front of a united and worldwide empire with all its traditions and power, but also because of universal confidence in his judgment and statesmanship as a constitutional monarch and because of his personality as the most democratic of sovereigns.

Cranberries.

Cranberries were formerly known under the name of marsh or fen whorts, fenberries, marshberries, mossberries. In "New England Rarities" (1672) Josselyn described the cranberry as the bearberry. The word so inseparably associated in the New England mind with turkey is not in Johnson's or Bailey's dictionary. Perhaps the colonists adapted it from the German kranichbeere or kranbeere, the berry now known preferably by German lexicographers as affenbeere. Wherever the name came from, it appeared in English literature in 1672, as noted above, and from a writer of 1694 we know that cranberry tarts were then relished, as they were later by Queen Victoria in the highlands.—Fur News.

KING GEORGE V.

New Ruler of the Big British Empire.

OVERSHADOWED BY FATHER

New King of England Is an Unknown Quantity.

London, May 7.—Whether King George V., as the Prince of Wales will henceforth be known, is to wield the influence that his father wielded has long been a subject of earnest debate among Englishmen—and among foreign statesmen as well.

The new king has been a long time in active training for the duties that are now his, but he is of a quiet disposition and has been so overshadowed by his father that no correct estimate of his ability could be made.

One thing is certain—George is not the cosmopolitan that his father was and this may have its effect on the foreign relations of the country. King Edward spoke the language of many countries. He was equally at home in France and Germany and he understood the Russians as no other living Englishman understood them.

Edward's successor, George V., understands English, and English only. He speaks no other language, for he forgot all the others as soon as he was out of school. His dislike of foreigners is said to be so intense that one of his father's severest trials was to make him understand that he must be civil to diplomats and other distinguished foreigners visiting England.

On the other hand, it may be said for him that he takes a keener interest in the colonial affairs of the British empire than any of his predecessors have done.

The new king is one of the most popular public speakers England ever had. At the time of the death of his elder brother, the Duke of Clarence, Prince George was an officer in the English navy. The new king's domestic life is ideal. In fact, he is too much of a family man to suit the courtiers who surrounded the throne of King Edward.

May Forfeit Office.

Rochester, N. Y., May 7.—Because of his failure to file his election expenses within ten days after election as required by law, James S. Havens, Democrat, who was elected to congress from the Thirty-second congressional district, April 19, over George W. Aldridge, Republican, has forfeited his office, according to authorities quoted here.

Iowa Mines Will Reopen.

Des Moines, May 7.—The joint wage scale committee of the Iowa mine workers and operators practically completed negotiations by adopting the resolution asked by the operators for strict penalties for violations of the agreement. The joint convention has been called for Wednesday. The mines will reopen Thursday.

Expert Attacks Analysis.

Kansas City, May 7.—Dr. E. E. Smith, chief of Dr. B. C. Hyde's staff of medical experts, testified in the Swope murder trial here. Dr. Smith attacked as defective the analysis made upon the liver of Colonel Thomas H. Swope by Dr. V. C. Vaughn.

Child Fatally Burned.

St. Peter, Minn., May 7.—Donald Bohrer, four years old, a son of Andrew Bohrer, was perhaps fatally burned. While playing with matches his clothing ignited, and he ran out into the street with the flames from his blazing jacket completely enveloping his body. When they were finally extinguished he had been burned from his knees to his shoulders, and there is little hope of his recovery.

Child Crushed to Death.

Cooperstown, N. D., May 7.—Climbing on top of a pile of wood her father was engaged in stacking, four-year-old Josephine Trosdal of Jesse met an almost instant death, several pieces becoming dislodged and throwing her to the ground, where other heavy pieces of wood struck her.

TERRIBLE PANIC IN RUINED CITY

Earthquake Survivors at Cartago Terror Stricken.

DEATH LIST IS VERY LARGE

Now Believed That More Than Half a Thousand Persons Perished. Many Hundreds of Others Injured. Four Hundred Bodies Recovered. Peace Palace Is Now a Pile of Debris.

San Jose, Costa Rica, May 7.—The earthquake which laid waste the town of Cartago occurred at 6:50 o'clock on Wednesday night. It continued about eighteen seconds. In that time the buildings of the place collapsed, burying hundreds of persons.

The dead were at first estimated at 500, but it is believed that the fatalities were much greater. Many hundreds more were injured. Up to a late hour Friday 400 bodies had been recovered.

Following the shock twilight was turned to the darkness of midnight by clouds of dust that rose from the ruins. Panic ensued and the cries of the injured and fleeing survivors filled the air. Cooler heads hurried to the telegraph office to summon help from this city and Alajuela, only to find the operators dead, the wires down and the railroad traffic badly impeded.

As soon as the news reached San Jose, President Gonzales Vasquez, accompanied by President-elect Ricard Jiminez and many doctors and nurses with a supply of medicines, started on a special train for the scene of the disaster. Upon the president's arrival at Cartago, martial law was proclaimed.

Throughout the day special trains arrived here bringing the wounded, who have filled the hospitals and many private houses, which had been surrendered for the purpose by their owners.

Camp Outside Ruined City.

Hundreds of survivors are camped outside the ruined city awaiting transportation to other points. They are being fed at the public expense. Seven carloads of provisions have been dispatched from here and Alajuela.

The Peace palace, erected at a cost of $100,000 through the generosity of Andrew Carnegie, was converted into a pile of debris. Other public buildings met the same fate. Many students at the college of the Silesian Fathers escaped uninjured.

The work of rescue was greatly impeded by falling walls, which blocked the narrow streets.

The tremors continue and the terror of the people increases as time passes. The popular fear of further shocks of a severe character has extended to the neighboring towns.

The disaster was not preceded by any activity of the volcano, Poaz, or of other volcanic vents. The shock was felt throughout Costa Rica and in parts of Nicaragua. Great fissures opened at many places in the volcanic zone.

The ministers here of Panama, Mexica and other Central American countries have asked their governments to contribute to the aid of their sister republic. Several prominent Spanish-Americans are among the dead.

ENDS HIS LIFE IN JAIL

Former Minnesota Editor Commits Suicide.

Jamestown, N. D., May 7.—Hanging to a strip of canvas over the bars of his cell, P. A. Kroskus, a prisoner in the county jail here, committed suicide. His improvised gallows were so imperfect that when he was found his knees were bent, showing that strangulation would have been impossible had he stood squarely on his feet.

He was forty-three years old and is said to have formerly been editor of a paper at Glenwood, Minn. He was sent to the county jail April 8 for soliciting liquor orders.

INCREASE IN POPULATION

Estimates Made on Cities in the Black Hills.

Deadwood, S. D., May 7.—From information at hand it is estimated that the population of Lawrence county will exceed 25,000, which would be an increase of 5,000 over the last census. Lead expects to show above 10,000 population, while Deadwood's is estimated around 4,000. Spearfish is figuring on the basis of 1,200, Belle Fourche a little better, Sturgis about 2,500 and Rapid City over 5,000. Butte and Meade counties will show a large increase because of new settlers who have come in the past three years.

Life Ended by Acid.

Butte, Mont., May 7.—Mrs. Minnie Williams, aged nineteen, wife of Anthony Williams, was found dying in a room in a lodging house in this city. Williams declares that acid was forced down his wife's throat. The police, however, are inclined to believe it is a case of suicide.

Paul Esch Dead.

La Crosse, Wis., May 7.—Paul Esch, son of Congressman John J. Esch, died after several months' suffering from inoperable sarcoma in the stomach. He was twenty years of age.

EXTENDS BELOW THE WATER

So Mining Company Will Drain Lake to Get Ore.

Marquette, Mich., May 7.—Because the ore deposit extends underneath that body of water, the Volunteer Ore company is preparing to drain the eastern half of Palmer lake, in the Cascade district of the Marquette iron range.

Before the year has closed mining will be in progress in an area now inundated to a depth of twelve to fifteen feet. The lake is three-quarters of a mile in length by 500 feet wide. Aside from the water, its basin contains fully thirty feet of mud.

The lake is being dammed through the center, the widest point. The fill will be completed within a few weeks. Gravel is being used, and so thin is the mud that the gravel sinks to bedrock. The dam thus will be practically watertight and it will be an easy matter to drain the east half of the lake.

The Volunteer Ore company, which is controlled by Thomas F. Cole of Duluth and associates, explored the property with diamond drills before undertaking development work, and it is expected that the mine will be a large producer. The ore body is of extensive dimensions and the mineral is of excellent grade. The deposit extends to the surface at one end of the property, and it lies at a depth of 550 feet at the other. A shaft is being sunk.

DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF ARTS

Colonel Roosevelt Honored by Norwegian University.

Christiania, May 7.—Another university degree was added to the long list that already decorates Colonel Roosevelt's name, when King Frederick university gave him the honorary degree of doctor of arts. The colonel visited the university and the degree was conferred before a distinguished group of Norwegian educators.

WILL TAKE THE FINAL VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

House Makes Progress on Railroad Bill.

Washington, May 7.—The house made great strides in the consideration of the administration railroad bill and reached an agreement for a final vote on Tuesday. The action taken, it is believed, will make it easier to harmonize differences in conference with the senate than was thought possible a few days ago.

By the close margin of 131 to 128, the house struck out Section 12, known as the merger section. Under its provisions one railroad owning 50 per cent of the stock of another railroad would have been permitted to purchase the remainder. It shared the fate of the traffic agreement section, which was struck out several days ago. Neither of these sections is now a part of the railroad measure in either the house or senate.

All of the sections relating to federal regulation of the capitalization of railroads were retained by the house, although amended in some minor particulars.

There were many votes by division in the house of various degrees of importance. Several of these were upon amendments to the merger section prior to the vote eliminating it from the bill.

An attempt to restore in part the provisions of the eliminated section was defeated by 25 to 90. During the day amendments intended to alter the provisions of the merger section were offered by Messrs. Hubbard of Iowa, Good of Iowa, Sabath of Illinois, Mann of Illinois and others.

Several sharp attacks upon the bill were made during the day by Democratic members. Minority Leader Clark suggested that the best way of perfecting the bill was to "cut the tail off right behind the ears." He condemned the commerce court, traffic agreement and merger sections.

Wreck Claims Another Life.

Marshalltown, Ia., May 7.—Dr. E. W. Jay, aged forty-four, coroner of the county and a prominent physician, died as the indirect result of an accident sustained March 21 while making a hurried run with an ambulance containing victims of the Rock Island train wreck at Green Mountain. Jay was thrown from the ambulance, sustaining a hernia through an old wound caused by an operation last winter.

INDICTS THREE LEGISLATORS

Special Grand Jury Returns True Bills.

CHARGE BRIBERY AND PERJURY

Inquisitors Assert That Democratic Leader of the Illinois House of Representatives Paid for Votes for Lorimer for Senator—Two Other Legislators Alleged to Have Given False Testimony.

Chicago, May 7.—Lee O'Neil Browne of Ottawa, Democratic leader of the Illinois house of representatives, was indicted on a charge of bribery and Representative Robert E. Wilson of Chicago and Representative Michael S. Link of Mitchell were indicted on charges of perjury by the special grand jury which for a week has been investigating the election on May 26, 1909, of William Lorimer of Chicago to the United States senate.

The evidence upon which the indictments were returned was supplied by Representative Charles A. White of O'Fallon and Representative H. J. C. Beckemeyer of Carlyle. Wilson and Link, as well as White and Beckemeyer, are Democratic members of the legislature.

Specifically, the bribery charge against Browne is based on the charge that he gave Representative White $850 at a hotel in Chicago late in May, 1909, as alleged compensation for White's vote for Lorimer for senator.

The perjury charge against Link is based on his testimony given before the present grand jury on May 5. In this testimony Link is alleged to have sworn that he was not in St Louis, Mo., July 15, 1909, and that he did not there meet Representative Robert E. Wilson of Chicago. The grand jury declares that it finds upon investigation that Link was in St. Louis on that date and did meet Wilson. The jury further declares that Link wilfully perjured himself after full realization of the value of his statements in the investigation.

Gave Money to Both Men.

The perjury charge against Wilson is based on his testimony given before the members of the grand jury May 5. The indictment alleges that Wilson testified that he did not hand sums of money to Representative White and Representative Beckemeyer in the Southern hotel at St. Louis July 15, 1909. The grand jury states in its bill against Wilson that it finds that Wilson did hand money to both White and Backemeyer at St. Louis on the date specified.

Immediately upon the return of the three indictments Judge Kersten fixed Browne's bail at $15,000, that of Wilson at $15,000 and that of Link at $5,000.

Another indictment, not bearing upon the Lorimer investigation, but in connection with another case of alleged legislative bribery, was returned by the jury against William J. Henley, former president of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad. This indictment charges Henley with embezzlement of the railroad's funds. It is an outcome of charges made by John C. Fetzer, who alleged that a "slush fund" of $312,000 had been used in the legislature to secure the passage of railroad legislation. The specific bill was house bill "777," validating a $50,000,000 bond issue made by the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad.

BROTHERS IN FATAL FIGHT

One of Them Mortally Wounds the Other.

Bismarck, N. D., May 7.—Oscar Hambeck was brought to the city suffering from a bullet wound inflicted by his brother Charles. It appears the two men became engaged in a quarrel on their farm near Cole Harbor, where they live, and the shooting followed.

According to the story of Oscar he was the original offender and attacked his brother with an axe. Charles rushed into the house, secured a revolver and fired at Oscar. The bullet went through his body just above the left lung.

Oscar Hambeck, the injured man, has been an inmate of the state insane asylum and has been out only a year. Charles Hambeck has not been arrested.

Oscar is not expected to live and his brother is a constant attendant at his bedside.

ATTORNEY BRANDEIS SPRINGS SENSATION

Intimates President Taft Acted Hastily in Ballinger Affair.

Washington, May 7.—Keeping Secretary Ballinger "on the grill" in the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry throughout the day, Attorney Brandeis, counsel for L. R. Glavis, sprang something of a sensation by strongly intimating that the exoneration of Ballinger and the dismissal of Glavis by the president was not the result of a judicial weighing of the facts by President Taft in person, as has been generally supposed. He indicated by his questions to Mr. Ballinger his contention that it would have been an impossibility for the president to have digested the great mass of matter bearing on the Alaskan coal cases—making more than 800 pages in the record in the week elapsed between the time he received it at Beverly, on Sept. 6 last, and the making public of his letter of exoneration on Sept. 13.

Furthermore, Mr. Brandeis called attention to the fact that the week in question was crowded with engagements for the president. He cited, outside the record, the probability that the president also was engaged in the preparation of his important Boston speech. Mr. Lawler, who is the assistant attorney for the interior department, Mr. Brandeis said, made two trips to Beverly that week, and was there when the letter was given out.

Mr. Brandeis also sought to show that the letter, if the president did personally prepare it, was based upon an incomplete record of the Cunningham cases. He called attention to letters written by Special Agent Jones prior to the clear-listing of the Cunningham cases by Mr. Ballinger, in which Jones urged a full investigation of the Alaskan coal cases before allowing any of them to go to patent. He asked Mr. Ballinger if he did not think the president should have had these letters in order to have a complete record before him. Mr. Ballinger would not admit their importance.

Tells About Rockefeller Ailment

HETTY GREEN'S CASE

Defines Givamania—How it Acts on its Victims—Say it is No New Mental Ailment—Is Similar to Kleptomania Though Just the Reverse

New York, May 7—Special to The Dispatch—Prof. Arvis Evans, the aleinist of Harry Thaw fame, when interviewed today and asked to define givamania, said:

A good many people think givamania is something new, but in fact it is one of the oldest mental ailments known to the medical world. A person afflicted with kleptomania wants to take something, possibly a trifle value or of great value, that may or may not be of any particular use to him. One affected with givamania gives away things of value to others free of any compensation from the recipient of the gift, other probably than a slight service, or gives it to them simply from some whim of fancy on the giver's part.

Among those most prominently affected in this manner, and one whose mania interests the whole country at large, is John D. Rockfeller. He has given to various institutions and organizations throughout the country during the past ten years many millions of dollars, the University of Chicago alone receiving $20,000,000, his last gift of this amount, $5,000,000, having been given to them in the past few weeks.

Other prominent men and women of financial, political and social circles in the country are known to be similarly affected with the same mania. Mrs. O. P. Belmont is a suffragette, and has given many hundred thousands of dollars to its cause. Associated with her in this has been Miss Anna Morgan, daughter of L. Pierpont Morgan, a millionariess in her own right, who has given both her financial and moral support, renting halls, holding meetings, paying the expenses of campaign speakers and donating one hundred thousand dollars to the shirt-waist workers strike in New York City. Her latest exploit is the drawing up plans for the erection of a million-dollar shirt-waist factory, a co-operative company operated by the shirt-waist workers' union.

Mrs. Russell Sage has also given many thosands of dollars in similar manner to charities and educational institutions.

Miss Helen Gould, better known to the residents of East Side in New York City as the "Beautiful Helen", so familiar has her name become in the household of the poor.

Mrs. Hetty Green had an attack of the same ailment in a very, very light form, giving $8 for the erection of a cat house.

In financial, political and business circles, those who are troubled with this queer malady are J. Pierpont Morgan, William C. Whitney, Tom Shevlin, of Minnesota, James J. Hill, the late E. H. Harriman, H. H. Rogers and Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Even whole corporations seem to be affected with this same queer malady. The United States Steel company, for instance, who will fight a strike rather than pay a ten-cent increase to a day laborer, will give that same laborer a pension after twenty-five years of service. This same company will also sell its employes its treasury stock at five to ten dollars below par, guarantee them twelve per cent, on the value of this investment, when the stock in reality is guaranteed to draw but seven.

The Union Pacific railway, the Rock Island system, the Great Northern railway and numerous other companies and corporations and have also similar attacks of givamania. Even the newspapers have been attacked by it, many of them giving gold medals to everyday heroes, and vast sums of money and prizes for some small service rendered to it by one or more individuals.

I have a friend who is a doctor and resides at Brainerd, Minn., and he tells me that even the daily newspapers there have an attack of givamania; and he says it is apt to break out in virulent form within a day or two.

Large Audience Listens to the Japanese Girl and The Princess With Evident Delight

"The Japanese Girl" and "The Princess" were presented by pupils of the high school at the opera house last night. A large audience was present filling every seat in the house and packed the galleries to the ceiling.

The pupils made a decided hit as was evidenced by the hearty applause which greeted their efforts. It would be difficult to pick out any particular star or to decide which chorus did the best. Every member in the cast did his or her best. The singing was good and showed careful training. Principals and chorus alike enunciated their lines well. The audience was able to understand every word sung or spoken.

And the costumes! From the opening chorus of "The Japanese Girl" to the closing scenes of "The Princess," it was a wonderful variation of brilliant shifting colors and hues displayed in ingenious Japanese kimonas, trailing, rustling court gowns of charming design, doublets and hose that carried one back to the days of old, in fact, it astonished many people to see what faithful attention had been given to details and other preparatory work.

The choruses were well trained and their voices harmonized admirably. The high school orchestra of ten members played between acts.

Those prominent in the production and direction of the play were Supt. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. Frances Newman Dial, who had charge of all the music, Miss Mary J. Burke, who acted as stage manager, Miss Millicent Mahlum, who played the piano accompaniments in her usual faultless manner, Miss Mowers, who designed the costumes and stage decorations, Miss McCoy, Miss Nichols and Miss Long. There were others too and if not mentioned they are omitted because the writer could not ascertain their names. The piano used was kindly furnished by the W. W. Kimball Piano Co.

Children Must be Sent to School or Parents are Liable Under the Law to Heavy Fine

TRUANCY LAWS ARE ENFORCED

Geo. M. Walz, of St. Cloud, and Geo. W. Pippy, Inspectors, Talk About Their Work Here

Geo. M. Walz, state factory inspector, and truant officer of St. Cloud, and George W. Pippy, our state factory inspector and truant officer of the Sixth district of our state, are making a thorough canvass of the city and looking up all truancy cases. Since commencing their work on Wednesday they have served over 40 notices on parents.

They have found cases where the parents supposed their children were at school and were surprised to find the inspectors report their sons as being truants. All parents are given fair warning by the inspectors and it this has no effect a test case will be made to show parents that the law provides a penalty for non-attendance of children at school. Parents, who can give no legal excuse, are subje to a fine of from $1 to $50 per day that every child of school age is out of school.

If children avoid school and the parents cannot make them attend, the law provides a remedy also in having such children sent to schools for incorrigibles at Red Wing and places in the state.

Children under the age of 16 should attend school unless relieved by a valid excuse. Children under 17 years of age found roaming the streets and not employed at any useful occupation are under the jurisdiction of the truancy inspector. A child between the ages of 14 and 16 may secure from the superintendent of schools a permit to work providing, of course, such requests is for valid reasons. "The general excuse that we hear," said Inspector Walz, "is poverty. Now, a state as rich as Minnesota should have no poverty." He and Inspector Pippy told how they found a family with three children in sad circumstances. The children had no shoes. The inspectors brought the matter to the attention of the ladies of the city who quickly provided shoes.

As factory inspectors their duties include the inspection of factories. Any employer found employing child labor contrary to law is subject to a fine of from $10 to $1000. Sshool boards and teachers have no discretion in the matter of delinquent pupils who come under the provisions of the truancy law, for the school board and the teachers are subject to fine of from $10 to $1000. School ligence is shown by them in this matter.

Through the efforts of the state labor department some counties have increased their apportionment by $1000, all due to the proper enforcement of the truancy laws.

"Today," said Mr. Walz, "7,000 children are going to school who would otherwise have been without the benefit of an education. Our sate labor department is to be commended for its efforts."

George W. Pippy, state factory inspector and truant officer, brought his first case to the notice of Judge J. H. Warner this morning. The action entitled, State vs. Claude Fogelstrom, was heard at the municipal court room at ten o'clock this morning.

County Attorney W. A. Fleming appeared for the state. The defendant's father, P. G. Fogelstrom, was present. Judge Warner after hearing all the evidence took the case under advisement.

W. D. Merrifield, aged 68 years, died on May 5th, 1910, of a paralytic stroke at a local hospital. The old gentleman was removed from his home at Merrifield last week to a hospital here for treatment. His advanced age proved a bar to his recovery.

The funeral was held this afternoon from Losey & Dean's undertaking parlors at two o'clock, Rev. Hugo Thorene officiating. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

In Gregory Square park we have had a first class water system put in with 27 park hydrants and two catch basins. The grounds have been leveled, new paths made, trees trimmed, and there is now under construction a 40-foot fountain basin with pavillons and pergolas.

This work is being paid for the Citizens Park Association at a cost of $1350. The board has ordered a variety of plants for flower beds and all work being done as per plans approved by the city council.

The Northwestern Telephone Exchange Co. have kindly donated sufficient poles for a dock at Lum park, which we intend putting in this year; we also intend fencing this park and have engaged the service of F. H. Nutter, of Minneapolis, landscape architect, to draw plans for this park.

We will provide some out door gymnasium apparatus in both parks and hope to be able to make a sufficient showing this year to appeal to the public in general and gain their approval of the work being done.

Respectfully submitted,
S. R. ADAIR,
President.
JENS MOLSTAD,
Secretary.

The pavilion and fountain in Gregory Square park will be of handsome design and be a source of pride to the entire city.

A. Everett has commenced construction of the cement work at the park. The floors of the pavillion and pergolas are to be of cement. The turned columns of the pergolas are to be of "kore-lock" construction or its equivalent, and each one firmly anchored to the floor by a tie rod. The roof shingles of the pavillion are to be painted green and the wall shingles will be a brown shade. The ceiling is to be finished in natural wood.

The fountain will be in the middle of the park and the will form a half circle with the fountain as center. The pavilion will be liberally provided with seats and will be an ideal place to listen to concerts, orations, or the proceedings which take place in the park. Between the fountain and the pavilion will be lines of terrace work and flower beds radiating from the center of the fountain.

The grounds are to be improved according to plans furnished by Frank H. Nutter, landscape architect of Minneapolis.

Among the plants and shrubs to be planted in the park are honeysuckles, elder bushes, rose bushes, lilacs, flowering currant bushes, hydrangeas, etc.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Grand

The bill at the Grand theatre this week is one of unusual merit. Among the films shown is one giving the experience of the gentleman who waits "just a minute" for a lady to finish her toilet. He assumes the appearance of Rip Van Winkle before the lady's thirty miutes are up. The most exciting film is the one whose conclusion shows a city fire department on a run.

The vaudeville features are all top liners. Major O'Laughlin, in his gun spinning novelty attracts much attention. The conclusion of his act, when he whirls his gun and the illuminated ends form a circle of fire backed by a large U. S. flag never fails to evoke rounds of applause. Callaghan & Cain appear in a comedy act and do a good character sketch. Zamloch & Co. appear as magicians and illusionists and their spirit rapping is a mystifying performance. Their card tricks are excellent. In the scene displaying the different national flags, Miss Alderman plays appropriate music for each country represented. Joel M. Thompson has a new illustrated song, "It's You Pal, It's You Pal," and sings with his usual good expression.

An Ideal Husband

If she is melancholy, excitable, troubled with loss of appetite, headache, sleeplessness, constipation or fainting and dizzy spells, she needs Electric Bitters—the most wonderful remedy for ailing women. Cherub Devine

By

SEWELL FORD

Copyright, 1909, by Mitchell Kennerley

"I had him call me up last night. I couldn't ask him right out, you know, but"—

"More delicacy!" murmured the countess.

"Oh, that's nothing for me! But I made him say enough so I could guess how he came out. You told him he wouldn't do, didn't you?"

The shoulders of the Countess Vecchi lifted a trifle at this.

"I tried to be entirely frank with Mr. Walloway, as I am now trying to be frank with you, Mr. Devine. I wish to ask you if my acceptance of this check is a purely business transaction."

"Why, sure!"

"You would have paid as much to any one else?"

"Been glad to."

"And about your offer of Hewington Acres?"

"Straight business."

"Then I accept both proposals." She paused, then spoke softly, "Good afternoon, Mr. Devine."

As he had found her, so she stood when he turned to leave the library. About her erect figure there was almost the suggestion of a highly strung bow, which he took to mean that she was immensely displeased with him. What a mess he had made of everything, to be sure!

Absorbed in these uncomfortable reflections, the Cherub narrowly escaped a collision with the solemnly alert Eppings, who had stalked forward to open the door.

The Cherub hesitated. Was it his characteristic reluctance to acknowledge defeat or a sense of not having lived up to his own code? He might at least have told her he was sorry.

"Wait a minute, Eppings. Guess I've forgotten something."

A few resolute strides took him back into the room where he had left her. Perhaps she had not gone. No; there she was, but— Why, what was up now? It was quite obvious that the Countess Vecchi had buried her face in the window draperies and was leaning against the wall of the room. Moreover, from the convulsive rise and fall of her shoulders it looked as if she were sobbing.

"Oh!" As she wheeled quickly toward him, saw who it was, realized that he was standing there looking at her, she dabbed furtively at her brimming eyes with a wholly inadequate handkerchief. "I—I thought," she went on, "that you had—had"—

"Yes, but I came back. You're not crying, are you?"

"Crying! Certainly not!"

"No?"

"Well, if I was, I'm not now. I shall not again—ever."

"That's right. You see, countess, I'm going to feel bad enough about this fluke of mine to do for both of us. That's what I came back to say. I don't know just how to put it, but if there's anything I can do to make you forget that there's such a person as Cherub Devine I'll do it, even if it comes to jumping off the dock."

"There—there isn't anything."

"Well, maybe it'll be some satisfaction to you to know that I feel like—well, like five-eighths off and nothing bid. Honest, I never meant to tell Nick. I was just going to"— The Cherub faltered.

"You were going to do what?" suggested the countess.

"Why, to spring it on you. Oh, I can guess what you would say to it, but—but— See here, countess, I could not help it. You're the best I ever knew. Just seeing you these few days made things seem worth while. Why, I didn't know what I was living for before. And then before I knew how far I'd gone I was seeing nothing but you. I wish I could tell you all about that countess."

"No, no; you mustn't!" Again she turned to the draperies, hiding her flushed face in her hands.

"Maybe if you hadn't read so many of those newspaper yarns about me"—

"It isn't that; truly it is not," came in muffled tones from the countess.

"Of course I can see where I don't measure up with the kind of men you've known, and I tried to keep that in mind all the time, but—well, I couldn't do it, that's all. You see, I haven't had much use for women. I thought they were all alike. But you—you're different, countess. I wish I was different too. I wish I was more like Nick. If I was perhaps I could make you see how much I need you—how— Oh, say, countess, couldn't you just let me say"—

"No, no; don't say it, please!" This came faintly, for her face was still hidden.

"All right, I won't." The Cherub seemed to be swallowing the words

"YOU'RE NOT CRYING, ARE YOU?"

"Then I suppose it's—it's goodby? He was near her now, quite near, inspecting with helpless masculine anxiety the outward aspects of her distress. He noted the subdued tremors which came and went with her sobs. "I'm sorry," he went on. "But Nick would have guessed it, anyway. Not all, though. He don't know how much I wish you knew, countess. I wish"—
